Spring Half Term

Monday 15th—Friday 19th
February 2021

Half term is going ahead as normal and has now been confirmed by DfE. There will be no online/remote learning this week and school will not be open for critical care or vulnerable pupils.

Please note: Learning packs for the week after half term will be ready for collection/distribution on Friday 12th February.

Friday 29th January 2021

With each passing week there seems to be something else we have to consider and adapt to. Yesterday a proposed return date for pupils was announced, 8th March. However, whilst this is positive to look forward to, it seems a long way off and could change again before we get there.

In the meantime we will continue with online learning, with a break for half term week. You may notice more of a fun, practical element to activities nearer half term. This would usually happen if children were in school so we saw no reason to change.

We feel part of a real juggling act, trying to keep our close communication going, when in reality, some staff are not seeing each other from one week to the next, between remote working and rotas! If there is any delay in getting back to you it's because we are communicating between us remotely as well.

By half term, all parents should have either chatted by phone to their child's teacher or via a Teams meeting just to touch base with parents about how things are going. We may review /tweak what we do but staff time is fully committed delivering our existing remote learning. We do think this approach is thoroughly worth it though and appreciate the mutual respect being shown by all concerned.

Conversation Topics:

This week the suggested topics are:

Choughs:

'I felt cross today because...' What makes you feel cross? Why?

Puffins:

Play 'Who am I?' by choosing a famous person whom children have to guess by asking questions with only yes/no answers.

Online Protocol at St Levan

This is what you are all adhering to without even being asked, thank you.

- ☺ Waiting patiently to begin.
- ☺ Muting your microphones when necessary.
- ☺ Not speaking over one another so all can be heard.
- ☺ Putting your hand up either electronically or for real.
- ☺ Leaving the meeting at the end.
- ☺ Enthusiastically participating!!

Keep up the good work, well done and thank you.
