Dear Families

Book club was fun - thank you to all those who attended – and thanks to Vickie Hugh-Jones for organising it (and bringing cake)! There was a lovely discussion with some really interesting comments made by both children and adults. We can't wait to find out what Beau will choose as our next book.

The Friends' AGM on Tuesday was well attended – and there were some lovely new ideas for events – watch this space! Friends are always on the lookout for new volunteers – please come along to the next meeting if you can.

Puffins had a marvellous trip to Cape on Wednesday – feedback from one of the children on returning to school was "that was the best day of my life" – that might be slightly overegging it but they definitely all had a great time.

Thank you for all the parents who came to school for parents' consultations – it's great to have such positive conversations.

Next week is both Anti-Bullying Week and World Nursery Rhyme Week. If anyone knows a nice nursery rhyme with an anti-bullying theme – please share it with us. Astrid has made a lovely poster for Odd Socks Day. The main message is to celebrate your uniqueness and individuality by wearing odd socks on Monday.

We have some lovely things to look forward to next week; PK Porthcurno are coming into school to run a workshop on Monday, Puffins are on a trip on Wednesday, the Minack are coming in on Thursday to run a workshop and on Friday it's Children in Need.

For Children in Need next Friday please wear pyjamas to school – and bring a pound (if you can).

Stars of the Week

Choughs – Hettie – for always giving your absolute all in everything you do. Keep up the amazing work!

Puffins – Summer – superb writing and determination to work swiftly – well done Summer!

Attendance (YTD)

- Whole school = 94%
- Choughs = 90%
- Puffins = 96%

Space Dome at Cape Cornwall!

Puffins had a super time visiting the Space Dome at Cape Cornwall. The projections extended right across the 'ceiling' of the dome and it was amazing to see all the different information. We learnt about the planets, their relative sizes and how they orbit the sun. We found out about stars and how many are bigger than our sun. We saw how the night sky changes across the year and even got to see where different constellations are located plus much more! It was an amazing experience and we want to thank Cape enormously for enabling us to have such an incredible morning.

Although we could not take photos inside the dome, here we are before we went in – we were very excited! We have written thank you letters to Cape.

Does Cape Cornwood Shoot of the I get got to have experienced the anathray space done Not only did you like us see your done but got us transportation that you which have to do I was amorted. My variety but was everething! You made so should day better.

I didn't know that some stone are bigger than the areas. I supposed to the night one.

I have used when the intervient was now.

I have a spian thank your

Dear Cape Comunit School,

I write to you today to express to you my immerce gratitude you what you did to enable us to experience the MIND-BLOWING (and discurse) space Dome.

Note only did you ensite us, you also provided us with transpored to go and get tack you the manifed experience—if you have not done this, whe could not have attended. My journante port was when the leader put the planets all around the dome then skrunk them to size and when he made it jed like an asteroid would crash into us... everyone breathed up sharply and our heart rates short up into space! Once again thankyou is much.

More Science in Choughs

Having learned about what humans need to survive, we found out about the challenges of meeting these basic needs in space. We watched a video about astronauts living on the International Space Station (ISS) and were pretty grossed out by some of the things they have to do! Drinking recycled wee and going to the toilet in zero gravity were particular low points, the Choughs thought! The astronauts have to strap themselves down to sleep and swallow after brushing their teeth. Some of the food they eat in space is a bit different too as much of it is dehydrated to save on weight and space in the ISS. We tried some space food ourselves and the reviews were generally positive although the strawberries were 'a bit sour' and the ice-cream 'too creamy' and 'not cold'. The astronauts also have a rigid exercise routine so, after learning how they keep fit in space, we designed some astronaut assault courses of our own. There was a big discussion about whether the challenging things about being an astronaut had put us off of whether the experience of travelling in space made it worth it.

What do you think? Would you still like to be an astronaut?

Next week is World Nursery Rhyme Week and we are delighted to be taking part. The initiative, launched in 2013, promotes the importance of nursery rhymes in early childhood development and education with a particular focus on how nursery rhymes boost early language and literacy skills.

We have a number of activities planned throughout the week, themed around each rhyme (see above). We'll also be making up our own versions. If you fancy dressing up to celebrate the rhyme of the day, that would be great!

Singing nursery rhymes is a wonderful activity you can enjoy doing together at home. You can access all of the free resources at home by registering at www.worldnurseryrhymeweek.com

We can't wait to celebrate a wonderful week of rhyming!
