PK Porthcurno Museum

Dear Families

We are excited to let you know that next Wednesday, Puffins Class will be visiting Porthcurno Telegraph Museum as part of our local history learning on WWII.

The museum tells the fascinating story of how this small Cornish valley became one of the most important communication centres in the world - the place where the first international telegraph cables came ashore, connecting Cornwall to the rest of the globe. It's a brilliant opportunity for the children to see how our local area helped shape world history.

- Date: Wednesday 19th November 2025
- Travel: School minibus (normal drop-off and collection times)
- Cost: Voluntary contribution of £6 to cover costs
- Lunch: Please provide a packed lunch and drink
- Clothing: Layers, a waterproof coat and suitable footwear for walking around the site

Kind regards,

The St Levan Team
